A. T. HERT DIES IN WASHINGTON

Suddenly Stricken While There To Attend Committee Meeting.

NATIONAL CHARACTER

Advance In Business And Political World Rapid; Much Devoted To Friends.

By Everett C. Watkins.

Washington, June 7.—Col. A. T. Hert, a man loved and honored by thousands of friends is dead. His death comes as a great shock to friends throughout the United States as well as in his home state of Kentucky.

Death came with such suddenness that several friends who were with him were still chuckling over one of his good-natured jests when they were started to see him in the throes of death. He turned pale, his eyes closed, he breathed deeply, gasped two or three times for breath and was gone. Apoplexy was the cause. The hour was 4:15 o'clock this afternoon.

At the time of his death Colonel Hert was reclining on a bed in his suite of rooms at the New Willard Hotel. He had been indisposed but there was no thought that death was near. He was lying on his bed talking politics and matters relating to tomorrow's meeting of the Republican National Committee when he died. A gasp was the first warning to those with him, who included E. T. Franks, former postmaster of Owensboro, Ky.; C. C. Chilton, of Louisville, who made the trip here with him; and two Kentucky congressmen, J. W. Langley and J. M. Robinson.

"As he gasped he rolled over on the bed," said Mr. Chilton, "and we rushed to his assistance. There was another gasp, and then he was gone."

Death Instantaneous.

Dr. Lyman Sexton, who had been summoned to attend Mr. Hert by Senator Watson, of Indiana, earlier in the day, when the committeeman complained of indigestion, arrived a minute later for a second call. He made an examination and stated that death had been virtually instantaneous, so he could make no positive diagnosis of the cause. Dr. Sexton's opinion was that it was either apoplexy or pressure on the heart resulting from acute indigestion.

Dr. Sexton chanced to return to the hotel after death had come. Even had he been present, he said, at the beginning of the stroke he would have been helpless to save him.

Mrs. Hert was at once notified at her home in Louisville, where she was awaiting his return from the political meeting. News of the Republican leader's death practically halted all political conferences. The President sent his secretary, George B. Christian Jr., to the Hert suite in the New Willard.

Cabinet members, senators and representatives, all of whom were counted among "Tobe" Hert's friends rushed to the hotel.

Body Arrives Tonight.

President Harding, Secretary of Labor Davis, Attorney General Daugherty, Postmaster General Hays, Senator Ernst, Senator Watson of Indiana, and scores of other Washington friends of Colonel Hert tonight sent messages of condolence to Mrs. Hert. Mr. Hert's body is being conveyed to Louisville in a special car attached to the train leaving here at 12:25 a. m. The train will reach Louisville at 10:35 o'clock Wednesday night. Mr. Chilton and other friends are accompanying the body. Colonel Hert, who had come here to attend the meeting of the Republican National Committee tomorrow and to vote for the election of John T. Adams, of Iowa, as national chairman to succeed Will Hays, was taken ill on the train while en route here from Louisville. He remained in his berth, attended by his faithful valet, George Lund, until shortly before the train reached here at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Colonel Hert, however, did not regard his indisposition as serious, believing only that he had suffered a slight attack of indigestion, and did not summon a doctor until this morning. He made light of his illness to friends who called on him last evening. However, he spent a restless night and at 9 o'clock this morning Dr. Sexton was called. The doctor left medicine which the valet administered during the day. He asked that Colonel Hert remain quiet during the day and under his instructions his patient remained in bed. Colonel Hert, however, felt better in the early afternoon and summoned different friends, including Congressmen Langley and Robinson. He also had asked Senator Watson to call at 5 o'clock. The senator was just leaving his office to go to Colonel Hert's hotel when he received a telephone announcement of his death.

"I had no better friend than Tobe Hert and his untimely death comes to me as a very great shock," said Senator Watson. In a choked voice, "I had known him for thirty years, beginning when he, still in his twenties, was mayor of Brazil, Ind., the county seat of Greene County, Indiana, in which he was born. He was a man with an abundance of fine qualities. He was generous, gentle and kind. He loved his friends and was loved by his friends. He was devoted to his family. His friends in Indiana, his native state, were as numerous as they were in Kentucky, and, indeed, his friends and admirers were to be found in every part of the country."

Laughing Just Before Stroke.

"Little did we dream that Mr. Hert was to be taken by death within a few minutes as we sat chatting and joking with him," said Congressman Langley. Mr. Hert had joined in the jesting and we were laughing as he chided Mat Chilton about some proposed political appointment. His death came with such suddenness that we scarcely realized what had happened."

Hays Mourns Close Friend.

"I am shocked and grieved beyond expression," said Postmaster General Hays, with deep feeling. "For many years Tobe had been my friend, so loyal and so devoted. With his activities so closely associated with mine, with his personality so vigorous in everything, I can not realize he is gone. It is a great loss. His death is a loss to his family, to his friends, to his state and to his country. I am simply without words to express adequately my feelings."

Secretary of Labor Davis did not learn of Mr. Hert's death until he chanced to call at the White House at 6 o'clock this evening when he was informed by Secretary Christian. Mr. Davis was numbered among Mr. Hert's close administration friends.

"At first I thought that Mr. Christian was not serious," said the secretary of labor. "Only a few minutes before I had left my office I had received a note from Mr. Hert urging the advancement of a deserving young man employed in my department. This last wish shall be granted."

Squarest of Men.

"I have known Mr. Hert for thirty years, having first met him along about 1890, when I was a thimble worker in Indiana, and I have been associated with him more or less ever since. He was one of the squarest men I ever knew. His word was his bond. No one was ever more loyal to his friends than he, and it is almost impossible for me to comprehend that I shall never see his smile and the kindly twinkle of his eye again. I am very greatly grieved over the death of this truly good and noble man."

Mr. Hert had been in Washington two or three times within the last four or five weeks. Each time he came it was in the interest of some faithful friend. He was interested in obtaining recognition for as many Kentucky Republicans as possible. He was in politics as a recreation and because of the opportunity it offered for service to others. He sought nothing for himself he sought everything for his friends.

Purchased Ticket Home.

Only a short time before his death, George Lund had purchased the tickets for the train on which Mr. Hert had promised Mrs. Hert that he would return home, as soon as possible after the national committee meeting.

News of Mr. Hert's death spread over Washington rapidly and brought forth universal expressions of sorrow.

OIL WELL BROUGHT IN ON BROWN FARM

Rich Sand Hit At 445 Feet;
Well Shot Yesterday,
Good Results.

The Smith's Grove Oil Company, composed of local capital, operating on what is known as the Brown farm, in putting down the first test well, near the old Carter well No. 1, struck a rather hard but rich sand at a depth of 445 feet, considerable oil showed when the sand was first struck and when the sand had been penetrated to a depth of 20 feet, on advice of oil experts the tools were drawn and the well shot, although the sand had not been gone through. The result was that the well was making in the neighborhood of 5 barrels an hour yesterday afternoon. The forecast of men of wide experience is that the well will be of long life and splendid paying qualities. At the present time there is no way of estimating the probable daily flow, as this is the first oil to be found in this field in paying quantities under a depth of 1700 to 1800 feet.

The sand found in this well is so shallow that the cost of reaching it is slight, as compared with the deep wells and as the pumping can be done far cheaper the prospects for the operators are exceedingly bright. People of this section are elated at this new find so near the crust of mother earth.

BROTHERS KILLED BY BOLT NEAR ROCKPORT

Had Taken Refuge from Rain Under Tree While Hunting.

Two young men, Willie and Everett Hopper, sons of Arthur Hopper, were killed by lightning during the storm of Wednesday afternoon. The accident occurred upon the lands, or not far from the home of A. L. Maddox, in the Echols community.

The young men had gone hunting and it is supposed that when the storm and rain came up they took refuge under a tree which was struck by lightning, death being instantaneous to each, so it is supposed.

Darkness coming on, and failure of the hunters to return home alarmed the family and search was instituted for the missing young men. Searchers spent the entire night in an endeavor to locate them, but they were not found until early yesterday morning. One of the boys, when found was in a sitting posture, reclining against the tree that had been struck by the bolt, while the other had fallen to the ground.

Burial of the remains of the young men took place yesterday afternoon at Providence, in the presence of a large gathering of sorrowing friends and relatives.

She was a devoted member of the Presbyterian Church.

Funeral services were conducted by the Rev. R. D. Bennett at Benlah church, in Beda, where interment took place at 4 o'clock in the afternoon of the day following her death. ## HANCOCK COUNTY HAS BUSY TERM OF COURT

Will Close Today; Eleven Indictments Were Returned By Grand Jury.

Hawesville, Ky., June 8.—Judge Slack will finish the present term of court here in the morning and is expected to return home on the noon train. The session has been an unusually busy one for Hancock.

The grand and petit juries were dismissed today. Before the grand jury finished its labors eleven indictments were returned. This is the largest number returned in Hawesville for sometime. Harry Poole was indicted for the seduction of Miss Lida M. Dickman. Eight young men of the Pellville neighborhood were indicted for racing horses on the public highway. It seems that horse racing has developed into quite a sport in that neighborhood. There were two indictments for gambling and one for child desertion. Ed Hush charged with cutting George Gibbs, was acquitted.

The attention of the court was occupied most of Wednesday in hearing the case of Mrs. Eliza Webb. This aged woman, one of the wealthiest women of Hancock county, died sometime ago leaving an estate of approximately $40,000 which included land worth about $25,000. By her will most of her estate was left to Methodist churches in the county. The land was intended to be left to the churches for their use during the next ninety-nine years. The will was contested by relatives and was construed in the court of appeals as giving the use of the land to heirs of the deceased for their use during the next ninety-nine years, after which it is to revert to the churches. Mrs. Webb had no immediate relatives. A judgment was rendered sometime ago in court at Hawesville upholding the specific bequests of the will, by one of which $7,000 in cash is left to the board of education of the Methodist church, south. Judge Sandridge and Ben D. Ringo were attorneys in the case. They, with Claude Smith, commonwealth's attorney, returned to Owensboro tonight.

ONE KILLED AND 18 HURT AT KNOX

White And Negro Soldiers Fight Over Ball-Game.

DECISIONS RESENTED

Blow With Ball Bat Fatal to Member Of Quartermaster Corps;
Slayer Escapes.

C. E. Wooldridge, soldier in the Quartermaster Corps at Camp Knox, died at 3 o'clock yesterday morning, and Thomas Greene, negro, Field Artillery School at Camp Knox, is not expected to live as results of a free-for-all fight at the camp Tuesday afternoon, in which eighteen soldiers were injured and more than fifty others took part. Three other soldiers who were seriously injured are in the base hospital, while fifteen more have been given medical treatment for minor injuries.

Wooldridge died from a blow over the head with a baseball bat. Greene is suffering from knife wounds received in the fray. The slayer of Wooldridge is said to be known to authorities and is still at large, although more than fifty arrests have been made.

Fight Over Umpire's Decision.

The fight is said to have started over an umpire's decision in a baseball game between the Quartermaster Corps and the Field Artillery School, which is a negro detachment. The decision resulted in an argument between the two teams, and one of the negroes becoming enraged attempted to take a pistol from a member of the military police who was trying to stop the argument. Spectators claim someone hit the negro over the head with a baseball bat, after which the affair grew into a free-for-all fight, many of the spectators jumping down from the grandstand and taking part. Authorities claim there was no shooting, but ball bats, knives and clubs are said to have been wielded freely as bricks and rocks were brought into play.

Many women and children were among the 300 spectators who were watching the game when the fight started.

Will Be Given Military Funeral.

Authorities at Camp Knox refused to give any information on the fight when questioned Tuesday night, and it was not until the death of Wooldridge that the full details were learned.

Wooldridge, who's home was in Chicago, will be given a full military funeral at Camp Knox, this afternoon, after which the body will be sent to Chicago for burial. A sister of the dead man is expected to arrive from Chicago this morning to take charge of the body.

Army authorities are investigating the case as all of the participants were soldiers, and every one known to have taken part in it is being placed under arrest. Search is being made for the negro, who is said to have dealt the blow that resulted in the death of Wooldridge. Up to a late hour this morning he had not been apprehended. Authorities claim to know the name of the missing man, and stated that, when caught, he will be charged with murder. They refused to give any other information concerning him.

FLOOD REMOVING DEBRIS OF FLOOD

Overflowed Area Faces Epidemics and $15,000,- 000 In Losses

Pueblo, Col., June 6.—Systematic and drastic action to ascertain the number of dead and to clean the city of Pueblo, flood-stricken for three days, was begun this afternoon.

Acting under military authority, Lieut. Col. Paul P. Newton, ordered every able-bodied man to apply himself to the task of removing debris from the streets as a measure to prevent danger from fire and pestilence. The order bars sightseers from the city, and makes work compulsory, either for the stipulated pay or under military guard without pay.

Late estimates of the total damage and crop loss from Canon City to the Kansas line is placed at $20,000,000 in a telegram from the Pueblo Commercial Club to Governor Shoup. Damage in Pueblo city and county will reach $6,000,000 or $8,000,000 the telegram states.

"Whatever figure the death list finally reaches, not half the bodies of the victims of the flood will be recovered," R. G. Breckenridge, president of the Pueblo Rotary Club said today. "It is based this statement on peculiarities of the river channel and the drifting of mud over the flooded areas."

Bodies Can't Be Buried.

All of the recovered bodies are being held in the morgue. It will be impossible, undertakers say, to bury the bodies for several days, roads to the cemeteries being impassable.

Rain again began falling this afternoon and J. E. Moorhead, personal representative of Gov. O. H. Shoup, made the paradoxical statement that it was a blessing. Should the city "dry up" too rapidly before the debris and mud were removed, the result would be disagreeable odors and probable menace to health.

J. E. Moorhead, secretary to the Governor, who is in Pueblo as the Governor's personal representative, today sent an urgent message to Colorado Springs asking that a supply of antiseptic and anti-diphtheria serum, lime and disinfectants be rushed to Pueblo as soon as possible. There is no unusual danger of an outbreak of diphtheria or typhoid, Mr. Moorhead explained, but the authorities are running low on those necessities.

Death List Is Growing

While the list of known dead grows slowly, reports to undertakers indicate that other bodies have been found and will be recovered when the waters abate.

Many bodies probably never will be found, as they were carried down stream by the terrific force of the flood. Search of the buildings is being conducted today as workmen are engaged in clearing them out. Some recovery of bodies has been made, and in cases where bodies are known to have been found, it was impossible to learn where they had been taken.

No accurate estimate can be made of the number of persons missing. An effort to do this was made by the Pueblo Chieftain and this newspaper had a list of approximately twenty-five persons. This had to be revised frequently as persons were found.

Transportation east and north from the city is just now declared to be the gravest need. Governor Shoup telegraphed to Senators Phipps and Nicholson to make every effort to get an appropriation of $20,000,000 to be made to repair tracks and rebuild bridges on the lines entering from these directions.

The Senators replied that they did not feel they could consistently make such a request for Federal assistance until facts and conditions have been more definitely determined.

Stretching in an irregular, far-flung oval, thirty blocks long and of a maximum width of twelve blocks, the damaged area, after the curtain of water had been withdrawn, presented an aspect of desolation that forced many observers to revise the early estimate of $10,000,000 to one nearer $15,000,000.

The Buildings Are Rotted.

A number of large and important business buildings on each side of the area were destroyed and many others were seriously damaged.

Colonel Newton late this afternoon ordered on the rifle companies at Brush, Fort Morgan and Brighton to augment the troops already doing guard and police duty in public.

A relief train with supplies for the flood sufferers left Fort Logan, Col., this afternoon and is expected to arrive here Tuesday morning.

A carload of provisions, the gift of the people of Utah to the Pueblo flood sufferers was sent from Salt Lake City today, bringing 125 tents, 2,250 blankets and 1,750 bed sacks. Three baggage cars loaded with tents blankets and cots will be started to Pueblo from Fort Logan Tuesday morning.

BAVARIA AGREES TO DISARM

Bavaria has reported to Berlin that she will not insist on the stand she took against disarmament as applied to all Germany by the terms of the treaty of Versailles. The Bavarians had threatened to secede from Germany before they would give up their "Einwohnerwehr," a sort of organization of security police, but they have decided to come to terms and meet the demands of the allies for disarmament.

BURLESON GOES TO SELL COTTON

Berlin has welcomed former Postmaster-General Burleson, who is in Germany for the purpose of selling Texas cotton to the Rhineland Spinners and Weavers' Association. He stated that though the deal was not closed the problem of payment had been solved by extending credit to the Germans until the finished cloths are sold. In case of failure in Germany he announced that he will proceed to Vienna and Warsaw on the same mission. He launched with Premier Wirth, and at Coblenz he praised Gen. Allen's efforts to maintain a model army on the Rhine.

LAW ABOLISHES ALL TITLES

Austria has for some time had a law forbidding titles of nobility, but it was found that counts, barons and others who were proud of their ancient ancestry had found a way to evade the restrictions. Their titles were engraved in full on their visiting cards and stationery and then crossed out by a thin line. A new law was accordingly passed making that practice punishable with six months imprisonment. In France all such titles were abolished by the revolution but later, in the republic, nobles were permitted, and they are still permitted to use them for purely ornamental purposes.

The Story of Our States

By JONATHAN BRACE

XII.

NORTH CAROLINA

THE CAPITAL of North Carolina is very appropriately named Raleigh, for it was Sir Walter Raleigh who was responsible for North Carolina's first settlement. It was in 1584 that Raleigh obtained permission from Queen Elizabeth to plant an English colony in America, and the expeditions which he sent established a little colony on Roanoke Island. There in 1587 was born the first American child of English parents. She was named Virginia Dare, after the virgin queen. This colony, due to England's war with Spain, could not be properly supported, and after a few years perished. It was not until over a century later that permanent settlements were made. During pioneer days Virginia pressed south into the new territory, and these, augmented by a large company of Huguenots from France and a greater number of Germans from the Palatinate, founded the first North Carolina town of Newbern in 1710. By the time of the Revolution the population in North Carolina had increased to such an extent, with an influx of Scotch-Irish and Scotch Highlanders who settled chiefly in the western counties, that it ranked fourth among the original thirteen colonies. Today its population entitles it to twelve electoral votes for president. Its area it stands about half way among the states with 52,426 square miles. North Carolina was the twelfth state to adopt the Constitution, the formal ratification taking place in November, 1789. The derivation of the name Carolina, as in the case of South Carolina, came from the Latin Carolus, meaning Charles, and was given originally in honor of King Charles IX of France and retained by King Charles II of England. North Carolina is also known as the Old North state.

SUBMARINE ARMADA GREATEST DEFENSE

Inventor Lake Says U-Boat
Most Powerful Weapon
in Warfare.

By David M. Church.

Washington, June 4.—The next war may see great submarine battles with armadas of U-boats fighting beneath the surface of the sea.

This is broadly hinted at by Simon Lake, inventor of the submarine. In a communication addressed to members of the Senate, urging a broad extension of the submarine building program for the United States, Lake disclosed that there are plans now on file in the secret archives of the United States navy for warfare by submarines against enemy submarines.

"The submarine has not yet reached its full development," said Lake. "There are other features that may well be added to further their effectiveness and increase the scope of usefulness."

"In my humble judgment it is the only weapon that can be safely relied upon to keep foreign fleets from our shores. Every other weapon is visible and can be met by another of its kind; the submarine is invisible, and if made noiseless and provided with noiseless and invisible automobile torpedoes or with proper mine-planting facilities, no other type of ship that floats on the sea or in the air can meet it on equal terms. The cost of the submarine is slight compared with other vessels. Did the six hundred millions spent on aircraft get a single German submarine? No. According to the official reports the best defense against the German submarines was other submarines. As soon as war was declared between our country and Germany I sent several plans to our Navy Department as well as to some English naval friends. I outlined how submarines could be used for defense against attacking enemy submarines. Some of these plans were later put into practice. They proved effective, but if they had been fully carried out the loss of ships near the English coast would have been very much reduced. These plans, I presume, are still on file in the secret archives of the Navy Department, where they may remain without further discussion so far as I am concerned."

Boats Undeclared.

Lake firmly believed that the German U-boats were not beaten in the World War.

"Many people think the submarine was mastered and driven from the sea," Lake declared. "Hundreds of millions were expended and lost on barrages and large fleets of trawlers, submarine chasers and other ships to offset the sinkings caused by these German submarines, and the submarines captured by these vessels were only one or two disabled submarines, and those sunk were insignificant in number and cost in comparison to the surface ships lost. England lost ships, cargoes and men without number. Untold fortunes paid tribute to the awful power of destruction of the submarine."

"In spite of the expenditures of billions on destroyers, submarine chasers, mines, airplanes and barrages the submarine continued to infest the seas."

"The strategy of war made it good tactics to claim destruction of submarines in unlimited numbers, but events as were claimed during hostilities. Much has been made of the fact that no American transports and troopships were sunk by submarines. The writer understands that history records that the Germans felt it better not to sink American troopships and saw her error in thinking that she could conquer the world through frightfulness."

"America Was Spared."

"To quote the statements of one high American naval officer who was active overseas, 'Germany decided it was bad policy to sink any of our troopships, as that would further alienate us when it came time to make peace and resume trade relations,' so the orders went out to spare American troopships; in other words, as this officer stated, 'they could have sunk our ships if they wished, but they had lost their guts and did not have the nerve to carry out their former program of frightfulness. According to the Bridgeport Telegram of April 23, 1921, Admiral Sims said: 'If Admiral Von Tirpitz had had his way in the high councils of Germany we would now be speaking German with a decided New England accent and he also said he believed airplanes and submarines would be master weapons in future wars.'"

"The submarine has not lost its power over other types of craft. It is just as deadly as when I first appeared before the House and Senate Naval

Children Cry FOR FLETCHER'S CASTORIA

GERMANY MUST ADMIT GUILT

At a banquet given by the city of Lille to President Millerand of France and King Albert of Belgium the French president declared there could be no peace until Germany admitted her responsibility for the war. He declared that the admission was made by Germany's plenipotentiaries at the Versailles peace table and that her guilt was recently laid on her by the U. S. Government. If they continue to deny it in the face of the evidence, he said, might make right. King Albert in reply agreed to the president's position. Lille, the center of a mining and manufacturing region and the largest city in northern France, was occupied by the Germans for over three years.

KY. BIRTH STATUTE IS BEING OBSERVED

The State Is Rapidly Learning Why It Was Passed, Black-ery Reports.

Louisville, June 4.—"The physician who at first was indifferent to the law requiring births to be registered in Kentucky long since has learned that it is a public advertisement of gross carelessness to fail to report a birth, and today every doctor knows that he has not rendered the full service to mother and babe until he has provided a proper and complete birth certificate."

This statement was made by F. J. Blackerby, state Registrar of Vital Statistics, in a report to Dr. A. T. McCormack, State Health Officer, on the work that is being done by the State Board of Health's Bureau of Vital Statistics.

"Upon the enactment of this law ten years ago citizens of Kentucky," the report also declares, "registered the births of their babies because they feared the penalty for failure to do so. Today they do this not only because they appreciate the advantages of such registration, but also because it shows a lack of pride and is a discredit to a parent not to do so."

"Perhaps nothing has demonstrated the value of birth registration so conclusively as the late war. Every returned soldier who was a father and had a compensation claim has been required to furnish birth certificate for proof to the Government of dependents. The requests for certified copies of certificates have more than doubled in the last two years."

HAYS ACTS FOR VETERANS

A recent order issued by the postmaster-general calls for a reclassification of every case where former service men were not given their proper positions and salaries when they returned from the war. The order stated that, through the service, discrimination against such men would cease at once.

CREDITS ASKED FOR CATTLEMEN

Federal Reserve Head Favors Big Loan To Raisers.

Washington, June 5.—Legislation authorizing Secretary Mellon to make available to the War Finance Corporation $50,000,000 to be loaned cattle raisers was recommended to Congress by the Federal Reserve Board in a formal statement issued tonight by Governor Harding. The recommendation was made. Governor Harding explained, with the concurrence of the secretary, to meet "the peculiar emergency existing in the livestock industry."

The board's proposal was announced by the governor before leaving for a two weeks' tour of the cattle-producing sections of the country. He will stop at Des Moines, Ia., Cheyenne, Wyo., Albuquerque, N. M., El Paso, San Angelo, San Antonio and Dallas, Tex. Governor Harding has just completed a similar tour of the agricultural sections of the South and Middle West.

"The board feels," the governor said, "that the financial emergency which menaced the country during 1920 has definitely passed." However, he added, additional credit facilities are urgently needed by producers of some highly essential products, particularly in the stock-raising industry.

Should Stabilize Credits.

Amendment to the reserve act, making one and two-year cattle paper eligible for rediscount, instead of the existing limit of six months, as a means of providing the longer term credit required by the necessities of the livestock industry is deemed inadvisable by the board, the governor declared. Such loans, he asserted, could be made thru reserve banks as fiscal agents for the War Finance Corporation rather than as banks of discount. He suggested that the time for making these advances to stockmen be limited to three years from the passage of the enabling legislation, "with a view to having the funds thus advanced ultimately returned to the Treasury."

"This legislation, in the board's opinion," he continued, "will meet the present emergency and should give ample time for the development of permanent plans for the financing of the livestock industry. It should also tend to stabilize the credits affecting this industry and serve to demonstrate the value to those desiring short-time investments, of cattle paper running longer than six months."

Discussing the general credit situation, Governor Harding maintained there was no ground for apprehension regarding the ability of the banks to meet the requirements of both agriculture and industry.

"It is the opinion of the federal reserve board," he said, "that the country is approaching a crop season with underlying conditions far sounder than they were a year ago. It should be understood that, until there is a broadening of the market for agricultural products, many farmers will have to be granted extensions on loans already made them, and will in many cases require additional credits to member banks for the productive requirements of their customers and urged all banks to aid in easing the situation in the agricultural districts, until normal processes could be further developed.

HER VOICE RESTORED BY AIRPLANE FLIGHT

Denver, June 4.—Miss Edna Kemper, of North Bend, Neb., has had her voice restored by an airplane flight, according to announcement here by Dr. E. D. Starbird, of this city, who recommended the "altitude treatment."

Miss Kemper climbed 6,100 feet above Denver, or more than 11,000 feet above sea level, in her effort to regain her power of speech, establishing a new altitude record for women in the Rocky Mountain region. She was in the air about fifty minutes.

The experiment with Miss Kemper was the first of the kind ever made in the West, although the therapeutic value of the air flights for loss of speech has been established in a few cases in other parts of the country.

Miss Kemper has been afflicted for a year with semi-paralysis of the vocal cords and had been unable to speak above a whisper. She came to Denver recently from her home in North Bend, Neb., and consulted Dr. Starbird, who told her of successful altitude treatments in the East.

"On the fifth day of the flight," Dr. Starbird said, "Miss Kemper's voice came back to her. Two days later she lost her voice again for two hours, but it came back then apparently as strong and clear as previously. Her voice is perfectly clear now, but hardly strong enough to permit her to shout. I believe it will gradually strengthen, however, and become normal in every respect."

Miss Kemper lost her voice following an attack of influenza.

TEN COMMANDMENTS STUMP 351 STUDENTS

New York, June 4.—District Attorney Lewis, speaking before the South Congregational Church, Brooklyn, told of a recent test in a Brooklyn public school, made at his request, to ascertain how many of the pupils knew the ten commandments.

Out of 1,373 children questioned 499 did not know the commandments, and 351 children had never heard of them. Asked to repeat the commandments some of the pupils gave these answers:

The first commandment is not to shoot craps.

Don't marry

Do not make love to your neighbor's wife.

There shall be light

The ten commandments were the ten amendments to the constitution.

Children must keep off the steps of street cars.

No to swear for anything

Don't hitch on wagons.

Love thy neighbor's wife

There shall be water.

Mr. Lewis declined to give the number of the school in which the test was made, but he declared it illustrated the need of some sort of moral and religious training for these children.

SALE OF PUREBRED CATTLE SUCCESSFUL

Louisville, Ky., June 3.—More than 6,000 farmers and every livestock county of the state were represented at the sale of purebred registered bulls at the Bourbon Stock Yards yesterday. The success of this the first event of the movement for better grade cattle in Kentucky is to demonstrate by the wide distribution of the animals, according to Prof. Wayland Rhodes of the University of Kentucky, "college of Agriculture in an announcement made after the sale closed.

Prices for the bulls ranged from $30 up to $385 with an average running about $100 per head. This fulfilled the promise made by W. S. Bell, president of the Louisville Livestock Exchange that the animals would be sold within the means of the farmer of moderate circumstances.

"The sale has fulfilled all our expectations," declared Mr. Bell. "The prices have been right and the animals will go to the counties of the state where they are needed most. Another year should see the effects in the market. Our next undertaking will be the sale of 200 pure bred bucks and ewes and 2,000 highgrade ewes to be held August 11. This will be the second step in the campaign of the Exchange to promote the breeding of better meat animals."

The sale was opened yesterday by Mr. Bell who explained the motives that prompted it. His talk was followed by an address by C. E. Marvin, president of the Kentucky Purebred Livestock Association associated with the Exchange in the campaign and a statement by Prof. E. S. Good, asst. director of Kentucky University College of Agriculture who explained the part the College was playing in the movement. To prove the value of the high grade animal on the market a sale of scrub cattle and of high grade cattle was held before the auction of the bulls. Mr. Bell explained the difference in market demand as this sale was conducted. The scrub cattle brought from $30 to $35 less per head than the high grade animals.

It was expected that the sale would last two days but all of the animals were disposed of before 4 o'clock in the afternoon, breeders failing to ship the full quota of animals for the sale.

METEOR DISPLAY IS DUE JUNE 27

Collision May Bring Comet Pons-Winnecke To Grief.

London, June 4.—Pons-Winnecke, the short-period comet, which is hurrying thru space at a speed of many thousand miles an hour toward the earth, will not have the best of the "bump" according to Prof. A. Fowler, chief lecturer in astronomy at the Imperial Science College, South Kensington.

"It is generally accepted," said the professor, "that we shall come in contact with its tail, if at all. In this event it is possible Pons-Winnecke may become so disintegrated that other self-respecting comets will disown him."

Cyclonic Traveler.

One can picture some scientist in a few weeks' time picking up a small meteor, the mortal remains of this cyclonic traveler in our space. "Alas, poor Pons, we know him well!" will doubtless be the comment of the astronomical world.

Professor Fowler was the first scientist to prove that the tails of comets have carbonic oxide gas instead of the deadly cyanogen gas, as was previously supposed.

"When the tail of Pons comes in contact with this earth," continued Professor Fowler, "vast quantities of carbonic oxide, which is an odorless gas, will be absorbed in the atmosphere of this planet. There is no cause for alarm, since the proportion of carbonic oxide is so small in relation to the immense volume of atmosphere round the earth that the effect will be imperceptible. People do not realize how many million tons the atmosphere we breathe weighs. At ground level the weight is fourteen pounds to the square inch. In addition to gas the tail will contain meteoric dust—that is, particles of iron and nickel. This dust is not likely to reach us.

Fascinating Theory.

"As to how a comet is formed I can not tell you, any more than I can tell you, from a scientific point of view, how the earth was formed. Perhaps they come from gases thrown off from the sun, which are gradually cooled. On the other hand, leading authorities on astronomy say that it is clear that comets can not have originated within the limits of the solar system. They propound the fascinating theory that comets, such as Pons-Winnecke, come from a distance in space so great that it is impossible to think or speak of it in terms of miles."

Professor Fowler added that Jupiter, to whose family Pons-Winnecke belongs, may cause a disturbance and so alter the path of the comet that it will reach its nearest point to the earth about June 27, the date on which it is expected.

"When the public interest in Halley's comet became acute I worked out the exact date of the arrival," continued Professor Fowler, "but I should be involved in laborious calculations for days on end if I were to ascertain the day on which Pons will drop his visiting card in the shape of a shower of meteorites."

Best Remedy for Stomach Trouble

"I am pleased to have the opportunity to say a good word for Chamberlain's Tablets," writes Mrs. Mamie Bertel of Moberly, Mo., "I think they are the best remedy for stomach troubles, biliousness and constipation I have ever used. I have taken them off and on for two or three years and they always relieve indigestion, tone up the liver and make me feel fine."

CANADA HONORS HER "GREATEST FARMER"

Nearly 30 years ago Seager Wheeler bought 160 acres of Canadian land from the Canadian Pacific railroad, paying $3 an acre for it. On this land he has been busy ever since trying to evolve improved varieties of wheat. Starting with a single red head of wheat that grew in a field of white he carefully planted year after year, selecting the choicest and most promising heads each year for planting the next. Finally he had a new variety which he named "Red Bobs" and which has yielded for him as high as 60 bushels per acre.

By the same methods of careful selection and breeding he developed another variety which he named "Kitchen" has produced 82 bushels to the acre, a world's record. No wonder he once refused $15 for a six-ounce bottleful of the seed—a price that figures out $2400 per bushel.

His fellow countrymen regard him as a great philanthropist, the greatest farmer in all the vast domain of the country. He has had neither time nor money for making various needed improvements on his farm but he feels amply repaid for his effort in having produced results of lasting value, extending the northern wheat limit 200 miles and enlarging the farming wealth of the Dominion by millions of dollars. In recognition of his notable contributions to agriculture a LL.D. degree has lately been conferred on him by Queens college, Kingston, Ontario.

LINCOLN'S "WEATHER DEFENSE" USED EFFECTIVELY

Chicago, June 4.—The "weather defense," first made famous by Abraham Lincoln during the emancipator's early law days, won freedom here for Charles Keane, 24 and William Casey, 21, charged with robbery.

Lincoln, defending a man charged with murder, won an acquittal when he proved that prosecution witnesses, testifying that the murder had been committed on a moonlight night, were wrong. Lincoln read from an almanac showing that the night was cloudy.

"The moon was shining bright and we could easily see the features of the two robbers," two witnesses testified against Kan and Casey. "These two defendants were the robbers."

The jury looked upon the identification as complete. But Attorney Ernest Stout remembered Lincoln's feat. He read from the official weather reports for the Chicago district showing that it had snowed heavily thruout the night of the alleged robbery and that the moon was obscured. He also won an acquittal for his clients.

DECIDE TO COIN SILVER

Leaders of the soviet government have granted the demand for the resumption of the coinage of silver, thus abandoning their announced intention to abolish money. The demand came from the peasants, who are steadily growing stronger in influence in Russian affairs and who are distrustful of the city-made paper money in circulation. This is only one of the several compromises made by Lenin from his original communist theories. Another recent compromise was to give the trades unions the right to fix the pay of the workers, instead of reserving that right to the government.

A cable message was received by Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, of the release of all Salvation Army prisoners, numbering 35, in Russia. Trotsky, it was said, inquired as to the political affiliation of the prisoners. When he was informed that they were interested only in religion he replied "That's worse; we want no religion here."

If you have the itch, don't scratch. It does not cure the trouble and makes the skin bleed. Apply Bland's Snow Lotion. Rub it in gently on the affected parts. It relieves itching instantly and a few applications removes the cause thus performing a permanent cure. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Sold by Ohio County Drug Co.

MURDERS TERRORIZE FLUME

Former legionaries under d'Annunzio are blamed for many mysterious murders, usually committed at night on the streets and in the suburbs of Flume. Men figuring prominently in the autonomous victory in April are the victims, and revenge is considered the motive. Many citizens have fled from the city. The leader of the autonomists, Prof. Zanella, lives on the Yugoslav side of the bay, where he has formed his government.

SWEDEN HAS ABOLISHED CAPITAL PUNISHMENT

By a recent law the taking of life as the punishment of crime has been forbidden in the kingdom of Sweden. A similar action was taken by the sister kingdom of Norway several years ago. In Norway, however, the immunity from death does not apply to members of the cabinet who may be guilty of capital crimes. It was argued that high government officials who might be guilty of acts costing the lives of a large number of citizens, such as involving the country in war, should have the supreme penalty hanging over them.

At the present terrific rate of divorce cases, we shall soon need a new reference book—"Who's Whos."—London Opinion.

MOST FATAL WAR GAS DEVELOPED

Slightest Touch Produces Death in Thirty Seconds.

Chester, Pa., June 4.—A new warfare gas, which will kill within thirty seconds the person whose skin it touches, was described here today by Capt. L. D. Hutson, U. S. A., speaking before students of the Pennsylvania Military College. Captain Hutson came here to perfect plans for a night gas attack to be staged in connection with the college's centennial commencement exercises on June 12. General Pershing, George B. Christian, Jr., secretary to President Harding; Governor Sprout, of Pennsylvania; Governor Denny, of Delaware; Brig. Gen. William G. Price and the entire cadet corps will witness the attack, which Captain Hutson declared would be much more modern than anything tried during the war.

General Pershing and Christian will be given honorary degrees by the college. Describing the gas as the latest discovery of the expert chemists engaged in the research laboratories of the 1st Gas Regiment, chemical warfare service, at Edgewood, Md., Captain Hutson said the United States had made tremendous progress in warfare gases since the close of the World War, and now undoubtedly leads the world.

"Imagine what will happen to a city," he said, "when air squadrons begin spraying it with that terrible substance. In the next war machine guns and artillery will be out of date—the weapons will be gas and chemicals and the humblest non-combatant will be exposed to attack. Entire populations will take the chance of never awakening when they go to bed at night. It will truly be a war of extermination."

"Another new invention is the toxic smoke candle, which when burned sets loose clouds of dust particles, temporarily incapacitating those that breathe the dust. The infantry will be equipped with these candles and they will be used in the advance to smother the personnel of machine gun nests, and the enemy huddled in trenches and dugouts."

Farmers Mutual..... 59

FRIDAY..... JUNE 10

There is at least one feature in the announced reduction of wages of railroad workers and employees which is scheduled to take effect July 1st, for which they ought to be thankful. That is, the reduction is not to be retroactive to some date several or more months in the past, as was each of the increases they secured.

When do the Joneses get a markdown in the freight and transportation bills they are paying? It's the Joneses you know who pay for the water in the boilers and stock, and the daily stipend of the humble track walker who plods his section with his shovel, pick and crow, and all from this lowly worker to and including the President, who rides a limousine to his office of plush covered tile and marble floors, where he reclines midst desks of plate glass tops. And the bondholders and the steel mills and even the tie-makers, all look to the Joneses for their up-keep and lay-by treasure.
When and by how may things change so that we Joneses may get a bit of reduction in rates we are now being called upon to pay?

Not so long ago, by some, the very best apparent candle to be used on and against the nominees of a certain party was the cry, that they were hand-picked. We heard no little of it in these parts. In view of what has and is going to happen, we just naturally wonder what these same good brethren are going to say in defense of their own acts. Not that it is any of our business, or our fight, but still you know one's mind just naturally wanders back and forth, to events of the same character both past and present,
there being such a similarity—yes,
in the interest of party harmony and SUCCESS, the Executive Committee begs, earnestly recommends, advises and urges all prospective—but that's far enough we are not going to tell the remainder.

In the death of Col. A. T. Hert Kentucky loses one of her most leading citizens, from a philanthropic standpoint, perhaps her most useful and valuable resident. Being a man of wealth he was able to lend financial assistance to every worthy cause brought to the public's attention, and he possessed an open hand and a willing heart. His generosity was commensurate with his ability.
It is said that champions of worthy causes never appealed to him in vain.
In the taking away of one such citizen from among so few who are really able to do so much, the loss is indeed acute. Mr. Hert was an ardent, but a broad minded and fair fighting Republican and the party to which he belonged, in fact of which he was the real head in Kentucky, will most keenly feel the sting of his seemingly untimely demise.
While he was public spirited and ever active in councils of his party he never sought office, but upon the other hand refused office by appointment, and otherwise. He was really a rich man, not only in treasure and stores, but in the broadest sense of the word.

Just about the time our graded and high schools are closing we commence thinking about the one that is to follow, and the hardships attached to the positions filled by those who much select the faculty and prepare ways and means for the payment of same, as well as the innumerable other items of expense incident to the conduct of a successful and well regulated institution of minor learning. Last year was indeed, the hardest year in the history of graded and high schools within the State.
The enforced and righteous increase in the salary of teachers of common schools operated within the high schools as the law had been enacted for both. If it was not, Abnormal conditions made it necessary to increase the pay of teachers, which naturally and necessarily called for more school tax money with which to meet the increased outlay.

Just as abnormal conditions made a greater amount of tax money necessary in every other department, civil religious and social. In the case of the common schools a ready way was found by which the increased demands could be and were readily met. Not so with the high schools.
The attempted cure for their troubles proved to be no cure at all. No legal right was granted to increase the school levy, while it was absolutely necessary to increase salaries to almost double those of former years and at the same time the purchase of fuel and all the other necessary items and fixtures connected with the operation of a good school came about three times higher than in former years. Before the sun sets on the last day of the convening of the General Assembly, in the early days of 1922, relief should be not only in sight, but on the way to all high schools of the Commonwealth. Teachers' salaries will never, should not, be materially reduced and without material and substantial relief, and that at the earliest date possible, the average high school is staring ruin and disaster squarely in the face.

ORGANIC UNION OF 3 CHURCHES APPROVED

Toronto, Ont., June 7—Organic union of the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational Church was approved by the Presbyterian general assembly of Canada today by a vote of 419 to 111.

The resolution by which the assembly voted for the union was moved by Dr. W. J. Clark, of Montreal, and provided that the general assembly take such steps as may be deemed best to consummate organic union as expeditiously as possible.
It was drafted by a special committee and submitted last week.

An amendment moved by Dr. J.
Frazier, also of Montreal, which was offered at the same time, provided that the assembly at no time seek the consummation of organic union without a clear and unmistakable mandate from the people.

Both of these documents had been under debate since they were first introduced, and when the time came for voting the clerk requested the delegates to ballot for "the motion or the amendment" as they preferred.

The result was but little different from the vote on union, taken at the Winnipeg assembly in 1916, when the returns were 496 to 99 in favor of union. The first vote on the question, taken in 1911 at Edmonton, also was in favor of the union, but the result was not so decisive.

PRESIDENT HARDING SENDS MESSAGE TO MRS. HERT

Washington, June 7.—On learning of the death of Col. A. T. Hert, President Harding sent Secretary Christian to the hotel as his personal representative and tonight he delivered the following message to Mrs.
Hert, at Louisville, Ky.:

"I am distressed and shocked to learn of the sudden death of Mr.
Hert. He was a good friend and an eminent citizen who had played a conspicuous part in the affairs of his party and his country. I wish I could in some way lighten the burden of sorrow which I know to have fallen upon you. If the knowledge of the high regard in which he was held will in any way mitigate your grief, I can assure you that he was highly esteemed and much beloved."

"Don't you think her voice ought to be cultivated?"

"No. I think it should be harvested."

STRAY STREAKS

(By Fluke McFluke.)

Joe Hagerman's folks had been doctoring him up for founder and slipping of toenails and just about the time they had him improving and his nails stopped from skidding, Squire Leslie Combs spilled the beans
by sending Joe a big hunk of nice mutton, and now Hagerman's folks have it all to do over again.

Ches. Leach, the cobbler, says it's too hot to work in the daytime and the bugs and flies are so bad he can't work at night, even if his important calling is that of healing and saving the soles of the people.

Several citizens and, 35 or 40 candidates were in town Monday. To a stranger it would have appeared that quite a large number of gentlemen were here on that date.

Our friend, I. D. Claire is all philosophy in his heads this week.
He writes a bit like some branch of his department had made a successful shiae raid and had placed the fruits of their toil where Claire's mind was perhaps psychologically affected, at least that is the hypothetical deduction we have arrived at, knowing the Author's nature as well as we think we do.

Clem Moxley of Fordsville, save since John Henry Thomas left Ohio County his nearest competitor and rival for good looks and winning ways is Squire Ben Rice and that Ben would not last long in a real beauty show where honest, capable and impartial judges were deciding the contest.

BEADS ODDLY STRUNG

(By I. D. Claire.)

A violent inmate is confined, not for a season, but for the period of his sentence to society. But strange as it may seem, nobody has thought of applying this simple rule of common-sense to the treatment of habitual criminals.

Life is not a concrete entity but a point of view. The bride of yesterday exists over a golden sunset which has no charm for the mother recent from a little mound of fresh turned clay. It is substance within, not a shadow without.

Who dares to justly judge the great Caesar in his passion for the Egyptian queen? A master of the world kneels at the feet of the most seductive woman that ever trod the paths of earth, and feeble minds that have never known his power of thought or heat of heart sit in solemn condemnation. But only a Caesar may justly judge a Caesar.

In plying the culprit condemned to death we forget that we are all alike under such condemnation; only fate mercifully withholds from us the day for our execution.

Only that man has lost usefulness to himself and to the world in which he lives, who has lost courage and self-confidence.

The laborer who accounts his duty done when the whistle blows and hurries home to vent his jealousy of his employer, forgets that employer's work goes on until relieved by sleep, and begins again before he has risen from his bed.

Aspiring to place and power brings many heartaches to the multitude who fail to achieve it, and disappointing disillusionment to the few who do. Thirty-three millionaires in the United States committed suicide last year. Kings and emperors have died of broken hearts. True greatness consists in selfmastery, alike in the prince and the peasant.

One sage philosopher has said that we take out of life what we put into it, but it was a wiser man who said Nature will not be cheated; for everything we take out of life's storehouse we must pay. And yet we are all prodigal borrowers, hoping against hope that in some strange way payday will never come.

MAN BLIGHT.

Nell—Ann is a horrible dresser.
Belle—Do her clothes look as tho
she made them herself?
Nell—Worse! They look as tho
her husband chose them.

OBITUARY.

Marvin Hoover, son of I. C. and Mary E. Shown Hoover, was born March 15, 1891, near Bada, Ky., and died June 2, 1921, of lung trouble, age 30 years 2 months and 17 days.

He was a loyal member of Hartford Lodges. Woodmen of the World and The Knights of the Macebees. He was also a former member of Co. H. 3rd. Ky. Inf., which was stationed at Hartford, and while with the organization gained an envious reputation for his skill in marksmanship. During 1915 he won a place as a member of the State Rifle Team, and at Jacksonville, Fla., that year he won the highly prized
"Williams" medal for being the most expert rifleman on the team.

At the age of 23 Marvin had the responsibilities of the care of a widowed mother and three younger brothers thrust upon him, following the death of his father. He assumed these cares bravely and by close application to work and study he succeeded in graduating from Hartford High school with the Class of '16. He was married to Miss Stella Sinnott, daughter of W. L. and Eliza

Sinnott, May 20, 1917, who survives him.

He taught a number of successful public schools, however the throats of disease forced him to give up this work some three years ago.
Early in life he professed religion and united with the M. E. church at Shinkle Chapel.

Marvin was a shrewd, industrious, quiet-minded boy, and one whose character was unapproachable. He well knew what the final result of his disease would be and had made every preparation for his passing away, both as to the care of his dependents and the welfare of his soul.

A noble life has passed into eternity. A life which is worthy to be emulated by all who are to follow.

A Friend and Associate.

HILL IN HOUSE, TO BAR JULY 2 FIGHT
Washington, June 8.—A resolution designed to prohibit the Dempsey-Carpentier fight at Jersey City July 2 unless Congress meanwhile shall have "fairly treated" Americans who served in the World War was introduced in the House today by Representative Gallivan, Democrat, Massachusetts.

In a statement Representative Gallivan characterized Dempsey as "a big bum who dodged the draft" and declared that France had been at war for months before Carpentier joined the colors.

"The men who will pay $50 for a ringside seat to look at these two 'fighters' overwhelmed members of the last Congress with their letters of protest against paying a mere pittance of a soldiers' bonus to real champions," Mr. Gallivan said. "It would not have cost these men individually $50 to have helped meet the cost of a soldier bonus bill."

"I am opposed to this international bout on American soil, where millions of American money are to be wasted, until the American service men and women have been fairly treated by the American Government."

FARM DEPARTMENT.

Game Law Violators Get Heavy Penalties.

For selling wild ducks in violation of the Federal Migratory Bird Treaty Act, Federal Judge Triche, at Little Rock, Ark., imposed maximum penalties on John Hardy and Nick Gurno, at the May term of court. Hardy was fined $500, while Gurno was sentenced to six months in jail and assessed in addition, a fine of $50. It was alleged that both of the accused have been leading figures in illegal traffic in wild ducks. Both had previously been arraigned in Federal court for violation of the game laws.

Compare High and Low Prices Of Farm Products.

The average price received by producers of the United States for hogs during April fell below $8 per 100 pounds for the first time since March 1916, according to a report by the Bureau of Crop Estimates, United States Department of Agriculture. The average price for April reached the low mark of $7.86. The highest price reached at any time was during August, 1919, when the average was $19.30 per 100 pounds. Prices advanced more or less steadily from 1916 to 1919, then took a rather rapid drop during the latter part of 1919. During 1920 the average price for each month was between $13 and $14 until December when it dropped to about $11.

The price which producers received for cotton seed reached the lowest mark in April since November, 1914, when it was $14.01 per ton. The average price for last April was $17.23 per ton, as compared to the peak price of $72.65 in November, 1919. The low price in 1914 was the result of the big crop produced that year, which amounted to 15,873,002 bales.

The price of wool in April was below 18 cents, which is the lowest since May, 1912. In March and April, 1918, the average price of wool was 60 cents a pound.

There's one animal that would be mighty unpopular if he ever left civilization and his free board and keep and went back to his fellows. That's the obliging little pocket gopher that travels with Leo K. Conch, of the Bureau of Biological Survey, United States Department of Agriculture, who is giving a series of demonstrations out West on how to trap and poison gophers.

This little renegade, whether because he has no choice in the matter or because he likes the Government fare of carrots, potatoes and parsnips, divulges the actual working methods of his kinsmen. When all is set for the demonstration, he is taken from his cage. He sets to work, unabashed by spectators, and gives a first-hand exhibition of how a gopher makes a tunnel. Then he shows how the mound is made and the entrance to it stopped up. His keeper then digs him out, places him back in the cage, and proceeds to his explanation of how to set traps and where to place bait to destroy his mascot's unreformed brethren.

Arsenate of Lead Spray Will Kill Grape Pests.

To destroy the grape rootworm, cultivate the vineyard during early June, the United States Department of Agriculture advises. Spray the vines as soon as adult beetles appear with arsenate of lead, 1½ pounds powder or 3 pounds paste to 50 gallons of water or 50 gallons of Bordeaux mixture if fungous diseases are present.

To destroy the grape leafhopper, spray in late June or early July, when the nymphs of young insects are most abundant. Use 40 per cent nicotine sulphate, one-fourth pint to 50 gallons soapy water (2 pounds soap) or with 50 gallons Bordeaux mixture to control fungous diseases. Hit the lower sides of the leaves forcibly.

Conservation of Manure Increases Crop Yields.

Farmers in some parts of Eastern Pennsylvania, notably in Chester County, have been saving barnyard manure in walled enclosures adjacent to the stables, often paved with flagstones, for more than a century. The value of this efficiency has been shown in an investigation embracing the standards of management on 10 farms selected by specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture in the region mentioned, and the results are embodied in Farmers' Bulletin 987, which may be had free upon application to the Division of Publications.

The bulletin shows that the average yield of corn for the State is 42.50 bushels an acre, while on the 10 selected farms it is 85.50 bushels; the average wheat yield for the State is 18 bushels and for the 10 farms 29.75; hay average for the State is 1.43 tons an acre and for the 10 farms 2.65 tons; while the three farms that grew oats produced an average of 45 bushels an acre as compared with the State average of 33.10 bushels.

A survey of 378 farms in Chester County on which exceptionally high standards of management are maintained, including close attention to handling of barnyard manure, showed an average corn yield of 65.3 bushels; wheat 24.8, and oats 41.6. The comparatively high yields in Chester County, the specialists say, can not be credited entirely to the way in which manure is handled, because the soil in that county is much better than the State's average soil, but special attention to manure and its conservation has been an outstanding feature of that county's farming.

Simple Way to Prevent Leather From Mildewing.

Any leather article is almost certain to mildew if kept in a warm, damp, and dark place, such as a closet, cellar, or stable. This mildewing probably will not reduce seriously the serviceability of the article, unless it is allowed to remain on the leather too long. It may, however, change the color appreciably, thus injuring the appearance. The simplest way to prevent mildewing, say specialists of the United States Department of Agriculture, is to keep the leather in a well-ventilated, dry, well-lighted place, preferably one exposed to the sunlight. Mildew can not make much headway in the sunshine. When mildew develops, it should be washed off with soap and warm water, or simply wiped off with a moist cloth, drying the leather well afterwards. These simple measures are preferable to the application in the home of preparations designed to prevent the growth of mildew.

Necessity is a good foundation for a co-operative organization. If the farmers in your community feel a need for an organization they will be interested in it, unite with it, support it. This need may show itself in a lack of marketing facilities or unsatisfactory marketing conditions.

Candle and Grade Eggs.

Farm women frequently have entire charge of the marketing of eggs, butter, and poultry. In some States they form what are called "egg circles" for marketing their eggs in large quantities. The eggs are collected regularly by one of the members or by some one hired by the circle. Efforts are being made by marketing agents of the United States Department of Agriculture to teach these farm women the value of properly candling and grading the eggs so that only the best are marketed.

Keep Two Hens For Each Member Of The Family.

The average novice can reasonably expect to get an average of at least 10 dozen eggs per hen per year from his small flock in the back yard. On the basis of two hens to each member of the family this will give 20 dozen eggs a year to each person, which amount is about halfway between the average of farm and city consumption. No back-yard poultry keeper should be satisfied with less than this, say poultry specialists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Every back-yard poultry keeper should try to get as much more as possible. To provide an egg a day for each person, two hens would have to lay 183 eggs each a year.

Geese Are Grazing Stock.

Geese have an important part in the endless war on waste. They are in a class with chickens in utilizing waste grain about stables and feeding pens. In a larger measure than chickens or any other kind of poultry they are a grazing stock, getting their living in large from the ordinary grasses of the pastures. When it is considered that the demand for geese is steady, and extended over almost the whole year, not confined to holidays, as in the case of turkeys, that geese excel all other poultry as producers of fat, the importance of geese in the poultry scheme is realized as important.

Biscuit Dough For Shortcake.

1 pint flour.
4 teaspoons baking powder.
¼ teaspoon salt.
2-3 to ¼ cup milk.
4 to 6 tablespoons fat.
Sift the dry ingredients. Work in the fat with the tips of the fingers. Use enough milk to ensure a rather soft dough that should be patted flat rather than rolled. Bake in a fairly hot oven.

White Cake Icing for Shortcake.

Put into the upper part of a double boiler:
1 cup granulated sugar.
4 tablespoons cold water.
1 egg white.
When the water underneath is boiling, begin to beat with a Dover egg beater until the frosting takes definite shape, when the heater is lifted. Take from the fire and add ¼ teaspoon of vanilla or other flavoring. Continue beating until firm enough to spread without running.

Salads For Those Who Like Cheese

Cheese often makes a delicious addition to a salad. The following recipe for salads in which cheese plays an important part are recommended by food specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture:

½ cup grated cheese.
1 tablespoon gelatin.
1 cup whipped cream.
Salt and pepper to taste.

Mix the cheese with the whipped cream, season to taste with salt and pepper, and add to the gelatin dissolved in a scant cup of water. This may be molded in either large or small molds. When the jelly begins to harden, cover with grated cheese. The jelly should be served on a lettuce leaf, preferably with a cream or French dressing to which a little grated cheese has been added.

(Cheese and Pimiento Salad.)
Stuff canned pimientos with cream cheese, cut into slices, and serve one or two slices to each person on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

(Cheese and Tomato Salad.)
Stuff cold tomatoes with cream cheese and serve on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

(Cheese Salad and Preserves.)

Epicures have devised a dish which consists of lettuce and French dressing served with cream cheese and thick preparations of currants or other fruits preserved in honey or sugar. Owing to the fact that the seeds have been extracted by a laborious process, these fruit preparations are fairly expensive. The soft cheese often found in market is also relatively expensive. There is a suggestion in this dish, however, for others which are much less costly. Ordinary cottage cheese served with lettuce or other green salad and a small amount of rich home-made preserves, is a combination with much the same character and very appetizing.

(Deviled Eggs With Cheese.)

In making deviled eggs, either to be eaten alone or upon lettuce leaves in the form of salad, a little grated cheese may be mixed with the yolks in addition to the usual salad dressing and flavorings.

(Plain Cheese Salad.)

Cut cheese into thin pieces, scatter them over lettuce leaves, and serve with French dressing.

(Olive and Pimiento Cheese.)

Mash any of the soft cream cheeses and add chopped olives and pimientos in equal parts. This mixture requires much salt to make it palatable, the amount depending chiefly on the quantity of pimientos used. The mixture may be spread between thin slices of bread or it may be made into a roll or molded, cut into slices, and served on lettuce leaves with French dressing.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

Japanese advertisers believe in a lavish use of similes. "Step inside!" is the invocation of a big store in Tokyo. "You will be welcomed as fondly as a ray of sunshine after a rainy day. Each one of our assistants is as amiable as a father seeking a husband for a dowryless daughter. Goods are dispatched to customers' houses with the rapidity of a shot from the cannon's mouth." A grocer proclaims that his "superfine vinegar is more acid than the tongue of the most fiendish mother-in-law."

Surgeons agree that in cases of cuts, burns, bruises and wounds the first treatment is most important. When an efficient antiseptic is applied promptly, there is no danger of infection and the wound begins to heal at once. For use on man or beast, Borozone is the ideal antiseptic and healing agent. Buy it now and be ready for an emergency. Price 25c, 50c, $1.00 and $1.50. Sold by Ohio County Drug Co.

GREAT DISASTERS OF LAST TWO DECADES

New York, June 4.—Flooding of Pueblo and other Colorado towns, with a reported loss of 500 lives, is the worst disaster that has befallen this country since the sinking of the steamship Eastland at Chicago, in 1915 with a loss of $12 lives.

Within the last ten years more than 2,000 lives have been lost and millions of dollars worth of property destroyed by floods of American rivers. The most memorable were:

The overflow of the Mississippi in April, 1912, with a loss of 500 lives and the destruction of $3,000,000 worth of property in scores of towns and cities in Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee.

In March, 1913, the Ohio and its tributaries overflowed with serious effects upon a large region, including the cities of Dayton, Hamilton, Zanesville, Columbus and Cincinnati. About 700 lives were lost in all, 212 of them at Zanesville in one day and 150 at Hamilton. The property loss exceeded $20,000,000.

200 Lost Lives.

More than 200 persons lost their lives in a flood which overran the valley of the San Luis Rey River, in California, in January, 1916.

The Rio Grande overflowed its banks following heavy rains in July 1916 and several hundred persons perished, mostly on the Mexican side of the river. There were twenty-five deaths at El Paso and hundreds were made homeless.

The greatest American flood occurred when virtually the entire city of Johnstown, Pa., was destroyed on May 31, 1889, by the breaking of the Conemaugh dam just outside of it. The exact loss of life was never determined, but reliable estimates placed the number of lost lives at about 2,500.

A great part of the damage to Galveston, Tex., in a terrible hurricane of September, 1900 was done by water blown in from the Gulf of Mexico. More than 3,000 persons died and property worth $20,000,000 was destroyed.

Other Great Disasters.

Other great disasters of the last two decades in which the loss of life has been heavy include:

1902—Eruption of Mt. Pelee; 30,000 lives lost.

1903—Chicago Theater fire, Chicago; 575 lives lost.

1904—Burning of Steamship General Slocum in the East River, New York; 1,400 lives lost.

1906—San Francisco earthquake and fire 452 lives lost; property loss estimated at $50,000,000.

1907—Kingston, Jamaica, earthquake; 1,100 lives lost; property damage about $25,000,000.

1908—Earthquake in Sicily and Calabria; 76,483 lives lost.

Cut This Out and Take It With You.

A man often forgets the exact name of the article he wishes to purchase, and as a last resort takes something else instead. That is always disappointing and unsatisfactory. The safe way is to cut this out and take it with you so as to make sure of getting Chamberlain's Tablets. You will find nothing quite so satisfactory for constipation and indigestion.

FELT LIKE AN IRON BAND AROUND HEAD

Mrs. Osborne Says She Shudders When She Thinks How She Suffered.

"For years," said Mrs. V. H. Osborne, of 718 Lancaster Ave., Lexington, Ky., "I have been in a run-down condition; nervous, weak and dizzy. I was actually so nervous that any sudden noise or excitement would produce a palpitation of my heart that frightened me. I absolutely could not climb stairs, for to attempt such would thoroughly exhaust me.

"I had nervous headaches and when they came on it seemed that an iron band was drawn tight around my head. I now shudder when I think of those headaches. My stomach was weak and I could not digest the lightest liquid food. Any food of a solid nature caused nausea and the sickening sensation remained for hours.

"My misery was almost unbearable. My sleep was never sound and I was worn out all the time. My condition was indeed a very deplorable one. I finally sought treatment in Cincinnati but nothing helped me one particle. I was on the verge of giving up in despair when a neighbor pleaded with me to try Tanlac. I obtained a bottle of the medicine and began its use.

"I began improving at once and soon felt my nervousness and dizziness disappearing. Then my headaches left me and I realized my strength had returned. My appetite and digestion improved and I am now so much better in every way. This Tanlac is a wonderful medicine and the only one that ever really helped me. I hope every poor woman who is suffering as I did will try it."

PARTY STARTS OUT TO SCALE EVEREST

Darjeeling, Bengal, June 4.—Somewhere in the tangled maze of the Southern Himalayan Mountains, three parties of British engineers are working their way thru unexplored gorges and passes toward the base of Mount Everest. They are blazing the way for the expedition that will later this summer attempt to scale the granite walls of Everest and conquer the highest mountain peak on the globe.

The first party to leave here was commanded by Major Morshead, which proceeded up the Teesta

Valley, and over what is known as the Kangra route. The other two units, commanded by Colonel Hurry, intend to meet the Morshead party at Khamba Jong, and then the combined expedition will strike westward toward the village of Tengri Jong, which is about thirty miles north of the Everest group. A permanent base will be selected near that village, and from it will start the party which will try to reach the summit of the dominating peak of the range.

Before the actual work of scaling the stupendous slopes of Everest can begin, however, engineers must carefully survey all approaches to the mountain, and try to find the most practical route to the top. This reconnaissance work is the chief task assigned the men now working their way into the heart of the mountains.

JAPAN WILL NOT DISARM

A reply has been received at Geneva headquarters from Japan to the league of nations proposal that all powers agree not to increase their armies and navies during the next two years. The answer is a refusal. While the Japanese government "heartily indorses the high principle involved" it expresses the opinion that the moment has not yet come when Japan can afford to adopt it. It is made clear that Japan intends to carry out her naval program.

BOA CONSTRICTOR IS CAPTURED IN HOBOKEN

New York, June 4.—Svengall, a 12-foot boa constrictor, sleepily dazed in a cage at the Bronx Park Zoo today, apparently unmindful of the fact that to him went the honor of being the largest snake ever captured in Hoboken.

Svengall was rudely disturbed from his slumbers on board the steamer Coppenham when shipwrights repairing the vessel tore out the planks upon which he was reposing. The reptile was not down on the cargo list of the vessel, but arrived as a stowaway.

The theory was advanced that he crawled aboard thru a porthole when a tree root upon which he was riding floated by the vessel, which had docked at a tropical port. Floods have been prevalent in the tropics and it was thought Svengall was washed adrift when he took refuge on the root.

The boa was stunned by a fall caused when the Hoboken workmen tore away his resting place, and they immediately boxed him up and sent him to the zoo.

"GET BERGDOLL BACK CLUB" IN SYRACUSE

Syracuse, N. Y., June 4.—"Get back Bergdoll!" This is the name of a club organized here with Bernard H. Given, of Syracuse, as its charter member.

It is the intention to spread the organization thruout the United States. It was formed with the purpose of bringing influence to bear upon Secretary of State Hughes to set in motion ways and means by which Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, arch draft dodger, can be brought back from Germany to the United States and forced to pay the penalty for the crime for which he was convicted.

An appeal will be made to ex-service men, their wives, mothers, fathers and sweethearts to demand from the government at Washington the surrender of Bergdoll. Neuf and Zimmer, the two Americans who went into Germany and attempted to kidnap the fugitive, will be proposed as honorary presidents of the club.

U. S. "PAYING THE PRICE"

In the closing speech of a two-day convention held in Chicago to discuss disarmament, W. J. Bryan declared his motto was "Disarmament by agreement if possible; by example if necessary." The result of the conference was a resolution urging the president to ask England and Japan to agree to naval disarmament. Mr. Bryan said that "little things" had blocked us from peace for two years. In urging disarmament Mr. Bryan declared: "The devil taught us to avoid war by arming us to the teeth; we obeyed the devil's voice and now we are paying the devil's price."

QUAKERS REVISE RULES

The men and women of the Illinois Friends have voted to meet together in joint session hereafter, thus breaking a custom maintained for more than 200 years. They have also eliminated specific reference in their "Rules of Moral Conduct" to "dancing, card-playing and music," against which this sect has fought so strenuously. The words were supplanted by the term "doubtful diversions," and the interpretation was left to the individual, so that now each may judge for himself to what extent dancing, cards and music are sinful.

WOMEN FOR DEFENSE BY ARMY AND NAVY

Pass Resolution Which They Send To Senate As Protest Against Pacifist Tendency.

Washington, June 4.—That the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion is behind the effort of the Republicans in Congress to maintain an adequate Army and Navy for national defense is evidenced by a resolution which was read to the Senate.

"Whereas, through the publicity given the views of certain well-meaning women the impression is gaining ground that the women of the Nation desire immediate disarmament; and

"Whereas, there is no body of women with greater right or better qualified to speak on this subject than the mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of veterans of the World War, such as those who comprise the Women's Auxiliary of the American Legion; and

"Whereas, although such women, having freely risked and in thousands of cases lost their loved ones in the service of our Nation must therefore fully realize the horrors of war, the blessings of peace, and the desirability of disarmament when the proper time comes, nevertheless these women, above all others are impressed with the facts: First, that it took the United States a year to prepare a coordinate Army and Navy for effective service in the World War; second, that had we not powerful allies fighting for us during that period of preparation, the result might have been disastrous in loss of lives and possible defeat to our unprepared forces; third, that primarily wars are not the result of armament, but, contrariwise, wars existed before armaments, and armaments are the result of the desire not to be defeated in probable wars; fourth, that the present international situation, as well as past history, gives no promise that the dreams of the ultra-pacifists are about to be realized and the days of war to end; and fifth, that other nations, some of whose armaments exceed that of the United States, are not disarming. Now, therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the women who have been so closely touched by war prefer to pay for armament of a size and efficiency which will make all nations hesitate to attack us, rather than to pay vastly more dearly not only in money, but in lives, in a war of unprepared against well-prepared forces."

BRITISH WOULD COLLECT OLD CONFEDERATE DEBTS

The London Morning Post published an unsigned article in which a strong claim was made for the payment of the debts contracted in England by certain of the Confederate states during the Civil war, said sum to be credited to Great Britain in connection with the war debt to the United States. The sum is estimated at $60,000,000 and was borrowed by eight Southern states. The writer said that the opinion prevails in the United States that Great Britain is trying to escape its financial responsibility. He declared that the suggestion of selling the West Indies to the U. S. would not be entertained a minute.

DOG PROVES LOVE FOR DEAD MASTER

Eugene, Ore., June 4.—Proof that there is no greater love than that of a dog for his master was given by a Scotch collie which had to be lassoed before neighbors could remove the dead body of his master Christian Wizenreid, who dropped dead on his farm near here.

When neighbors came upon the body of Wizenreid, a 93-year-old resident of Lane County, the dog refused to allow them to come close. After he had been subdued the faithful animal followed the hearse twelve miles into Eugene and entered the undertaking parlor where it took considerable maneuvering to put him out.

QUADRUPLETS' FAME GROWS

One of the four children recently born to Mr. and Mrs. Michael Salzo of New Hazen, Conn., was named "Warren Harding," in appreciation of the compliment the president wrote a letter of congratulation, which his namesake will probably cherish as long as he lives.

HARDING HONORS HERO

An unusual ceremony took place at the White House when President Harding presented a congressional medal of honor to Gunner R. E. Cox. The medal was awarded for "extraordinary heroism displayed on April 13, 1904 when a fire in a powder magazine on the U. S. S. Missouri caused the deaths of 33 men and threatened to detonate the powder." Had that happened the ship and crew of 600 men would have been lost and it was only thru prompt action of the men that the flames were extinguished. Gunner Cox with two companions risked their lives in the blazing powder and deadly fumes and succeeded in subduing the fire. His comrades, who were enlisted men, received the medal of honor soon after but because Cox was an officer it was necessary that special authority be granted by congress.

ARREST FORMER GOVERNOR

S. J. Catts, ex-governor of Georgia, is under arrest on a charge of bribery and peonage. It is asserted that while in office he accepted bribes to pardon prisoners, sign or veto certain bills, etc., and that he maintained a peonage farm in Florida where prisoners he released were forced to work for their freedom. Catts denies all the accusations and claims he is prosecuted by political enemies. On being arrested he was searched and a heavy leaden black-jack was found in a pocket. When leading men set examples in lawlessness, it is not surprising if the ignorant resort to vice and crime.

NATIONAL FATHERS' DAY

Figuring that Father was not getting a square deal, and deeming that he deserves as much recognition as Mother, Miss Kate Swineford, a young school-girl of Drewry's Bluff, Va., originated the idea of setting aside the second Sunday in June as "Father's Day." On a personal visit to the governor she secured his approval of the plan and by his aid secured a charter for the "National Fathers' Day Association," of which she has been elected president. "There are just as many good fathers in this world as mothers," she says, "and it is time that proper respect for both parents be observed." She must be a very unusual girl.

BONUS FOR CONVICT WORKERS.

To induce prisoners to take an interest in the work and to learn a trade, Atty.-Gen. Daugherty has inaugurated a bonus system in the Atlanta penitentiary. To workers in the cloth-manufacturing plant a bonus of two cents a yard will be paid. The bonus will be raised or lowered according to the amount of work the men turn out. On this basis it is possible for a man to earn from $2.50 to $5 a week, which he can take with him when discharged. The aim is to encourage the prisoners, so that when released they will not return to crime. The labor unions are protesting against the plan, as they say it might take some union man's job away.

FINED FOR ILLEGAL MINING

For violating an injunction restricting mining in certain areas under the city of Scranton, Pa., the People's Coal Co., was adjudged in contempt of court and fined $150,000. Over a year ago the Pennsylvania courts ordered a coal mine operating under the city limits to stop operations as many thousands of dollars worth of damage was being done by cave-ins. In addition to violating the injunction, the company was charged with mining coal to which it had no right.

TAGORE TO TEACH IN GERMANY

The great Hindu poet Rabindranath Tagore, has accepted the position of instructor of philosophy in the "School of Wisdom" at Darmstadt. This is a school of philosophy on the model of the Greek academy of Plato and other great ancient philosophers. It was founded by Count Kaysersling, a German philosopher, and financed by the duke of Hesse, who is also one of the pupils. Tagore said humiliated Germany was the best home for a new school of philosophy.

AMERICAN CAPTAIN INSANE

Word has been received by the Red Cross that Capt. Emmet Kirkpatrick, a Red Cross worker who was captured in the Crimea and who has for several months been imprisoned near Moscow, has been driven insane by brutality and terror. Six other Americans, one a woman, are imprisoned at Moscow, and the American Legion in Poland recently asked President Harding to take steps for their release. It is asserted that they are held simply because they are Americans, and that all French, English and Italian prisoners have been released. Food has been supplied the prisoners by the Red Cross, but many difficulties are encountered in communication and transportation.

Why Suffer?

Cardui "Did Wonders for Me," Declares This Lady.

"I suffered for a long time with womanly weakness," says Mrs. J. R. Simpson, of 57 Spruce St., Asheville, N. C. "I finally got to the place where it was an effort for me to go. I would have bearing-down pains in my side and back—especially severe across my back, and down in my side there was a great deal of soreness. I was nervous and easily upset.

INDEPENDENCE SINGING CONVENTION

The singing convention at Independence May 27, 1921 was called to order at 10 a. m. by Chairman Ozma Shults, following the song "Revive us again" by the audience and prayer by J. J. Igleheart. Minutes of previous meeting read and approved. The convention then organized by re-electing Ozma Shults Chairman and L. B. Loney Secretary.

Eight classes reported ready to sing, and the leaders were appointed a committee to arrange the program. They decided that each class should sing three songs in the forenoon and three in the afternoon with a quartette, solo or duet each. While the committee was out Hon. Slade Taylor made a splendid talk and Ozma Shults delivered the welcome address.

The eight classes are as follows: Independence, Eugene Hibbs, leader; Hartford, G. J. Christian leader; Williams' Mines, Bert Lee, leader; Howell, James Russell, leader; Central Grove, Willie I. Igleheart, leader; Pond Run, Owen Sandefur, leader; Liberty, Horace Taylor, leader; Mt. Herman, J. P. Duke, leader. After all classes had sung, the convention adjourned for dinner, after prayer by W. J. Miller.

At 1:30 the afternoon session began with a duet by G. P. Jones and daughter. They sang "Somewhere." Then Centertown quartette sang "Crossing the bar" lead by Marvin Carlisle. Both were excellent. All the other classes had a solo, quartette or duet and they were grand and could not have been excelled.

After singing three more selections each, the convention was dismissed with prayer by M. G. Snell, to meet the 5th Sunday in July, 1921 at Mt. Herman. The convention also agreed to meet at the Fair Grounds in Hartford, July 4. All convention divisions in the county are invited to be present. Leaders come and bring your classes and let us have an all day "Praise the Lord with Song" service.

The meeting at old Independence was surely an excellent one and the people know how to entertain a convention in the highest degree. We hope to meet with you again.

OZMA SHULTS, Chairman.
L. B. LONEY, Secretary.
Notes: We gave an incomplete report of this meeting last week and publish the above detailed account on special request.

row, President Harding, much shocked by the report, sent his secretary, George Christian, to the Willard to inquire particulars. Later he and Mrs. Harding joined in expressing their sympathy in a message sent to Mrs. Hert at Louisville.

Attorney General Daugherty, on hearing of Mr. Hert's death cancelled his engagements and hurried to the hotel. Others who reached Mr. Hert's apartment within a short time included Postmaster General Hays, Senator Ernst, Senator Watson, John T. Adams and many others.

Senator Ernst joined with Mr. Chilton in making arrangements for the taking of the body to Louisville. The senator is a member of the party accompanying the body. Senator Ernst spoke with much feeling in referring to the death of Mr. Hert.

Wholly Unselfish.

"It was a very great privilege to be one of Mr. Hert's intimate friends," said Senator Ernst. "He held a warm place in my heart. His many qualities of mind and heart greatly endeared him to me and to all who knew him. He was an executive of splendid ability. He possessed sound judgment. His success in business and politics was due solely to his own sterling qualities. He loved his friends as few men do and he had no greater pleasure than serving them. He was wholly unselfish. His death takes from Kentucky one of its strongest men and one, who, had his life been spared would have done still greater things for his welfare. He was loved by all who knew him. He had friends throughout the United States."

Senator Watson's eyes glistened with tears as he looked on the body of Mr. Hert while it still rested on the bed on which he had died.

One of Colonel Hert's last acts was to sign his name to an indorsement of Sam Collins, of Whitesburg, for state prohibition officer of Kentucky. "Colonel Hert had told me that he was feeling much better when I gave him medicine about ten minutes before the stroke came," said George Lund. "He was in his usual good spirits and was laughing with his friends. Because of his selfless friends."

Declined Diplomatic Post.

When in Washington about two weeks ago Mr. Hert was a luncheon guest of the President at the White House. Mr. Harding had a high regard for Mr. Hert's ability as a business man as well as a politician. Mr. Hert was considered for a cabinet post by Mr. Harding, and more recently he had desired to tender him a diplomatic appointment. Mr. Hert however, did not care to leave this country, even temporarily, and he declined to accept an appointment. Indeed, Mr. Hert was a Republican who served his party for what he could do for it rather than for what it could do for him.

Pat Sullivan, of Wyoming, and many other members of the Republican National Committee, expressed their deep sorrow because of Mr. Hert's death. Some of the committee members first learned of Mr. Hert's death when they went to his room with the intention of making a personal call. Whenever he was in Washington Mr. Hert's hotel apartment was always the scene for his friends.

Several of the members of the national committee are planning to go to Louisville to attend the funeral.
